Outcomes of the program

- Participants gained a clear understanding of the complete drug development process, from molecule discovery to medicine approval.
- Students became familiar with the Roles and Responsibilities involved in various phases of Clinical Research.
- The session enhanced awareness about global and National Regulatory bodies (e.g., FDA, EMA, and CDSCO) and their role in drug approvals.
- Students were introduced to a wide range of career opportunities in the Clinical Research and Pharmaceutical Industry.
- The session helped clarify the skills, Educational Qualifications, and Certifications required for different roles in clinical research.
- Increased student motivation to pursue careers in life sciences, pharmacovigilance, Regulatory Affairs, and Clinical Data Management.
- Faculty and students expressed positive feedback, indicating improved clarity and direction regarding career planning in the healthcare sector.

All Diploma, Degree students & teaching staff from Asian Institute of Pharmacy, actively participated in the session. The expert's insights and the interactive format fostered a deeper understanding of the drug development process and the opportunities within the pharmaceutical sector.

The session successfully bridged the gap between theoretical academic learning and the practical realities of the pharmaceutical and clinical research industries. Overall, the program succeeded in achieving its objectives of education, awareness, and inspiration. It encouraged participants to view clinical research not only as a field of study but also as a dynamic, purpose-driven career path that contributes significantly to public health and innovation in medicine.
